Admission requirements

East and Southeast Asian Studies can be studied by any student who is registered in the Finnish University Network of Asian Studies and is presently enrolled at University of Oulu. The Finnish University Network of Asian Studies (<http://www.asianet.fi>) organizes the courses offered. It is possible to complete a Basic Level study package in this subject.

Study guidance

Study guidance is offered by Juha Saunavaara, the Lecturer of East Asian History, phone:+358 29 448 3327.

East and Southeast Asian Studies

The East and Southeast Asian Studies programme offers an opportunity to study with the region from the perspectives of culture, history, economy, multicultural communication, and political and social research.

Practical information

The East and Southeast Asian Studies programme is co-ordinated by the history department. Professor of History Olavi K. Fält is responsible for registering study credits. Exam results are announced via the Network's website (www.asianet.fi). Official study transcripts can be obtained from the Lecturer of East and Southeast Asian Studies (history department, HU 356). A curriculum of the courses on offer is published annually by the Network of Asian Studies.

Study packages and learning outcomes

Students are free to compile a Basic Level study package from the courses offered. Upon completion of the East and Southeast Asian Studies programme, students will have acquired the necessary skills to work in situations that require an understanding of East Asian and Indian cultures.

Upon completion of the Basic Level studies, students will be familiar with the basics of East and Southeast Asian as well as Indian cultures from the perspectives of history, modern society, economy and language. Students will also have acquired skills necessary for pursuing further studies in the discipline.
