Overview of the Subject

Saami as a Major Subject

The study of the Saami language is a field of Humanities that teaches and conducts research in the structure and use of the language, spoken and written language, theoretical and practical language planning, and language variation and development. The teaching is offered entirely in North Saami, but studies in other forms of Saami, for example Inari Saami and Skolt Saami, is included in the studies as well. At the University of Oulu, focal areas are language structure and use.

Saami Language is primarily meant for native speakers of Saami and those who have a native speaker's command of the Saami language. Students who do not speak Saami as their native language and who do not have a native speaker's command of the language improve their language competence by completing basic and subject studies in Saami as a foreign language (as applicable) when completing their major subject studies in Saami (as a native language).

The purpose of the subject is to educate versatile and skilled language professionals for the needs of the Saami community. Graduates of Saami Language are employed for instance in teaching and research positions, in Saami media, as experts in translation and language planning, administrative positions and in the field of language technology. Studying Saami, conducting research of one's own and getting to know the working life improve the students' possibilities to be employed in a position of their liking after graduation. The students familiarize themselves with the working life already during their studies, and a training period is included in the Bachelor's Degree.

Completing the Bachelor's and Master's Degrees takes approximately five years altogether. Students majoring in Saami do not qualify directly as a specific professional, but in addition to the Saami studies the degree must include minor subjects chosen by the student according to what kind of profession s/he is aiming for.

It is possible to complete up to a Doctor's degree in Saami. More and more students commence postgraduate studies either right after completing their Master's degrees or after working for a few years.

In addition to the major subject studies in Saami Language, the Giellagas Institute offers teaching (as a minor subject) in Saami as a Foreign Language, Interpreting Saami and Inari Saami.

Saami as a Minor Subject

Basic studies (25 ECTS credits) or 25 ECTS credits of pick-and-choose study units in Saami Language are a mandatory minor subject for those students whose native language is Saami or who have a native speaker's command of the language, or who have completed the upper secondary school Saami as a Native Language syllabus or who speak Saami as a second language. Saami as a Foreign Language basic studies package (25 ECTS credits) is a mandatory minor subject for those students who are studying Saami culture as their major subject and have a foreign language level proficiency in the Saami language.

Students who have Saami as a minor subject (basic studies package, 25 ECTS credits) must complete the Principles of Phonetics (3 ECTS credits) course, which is a part of the Language and Communications studies. The course is scheduled to the beginning of the basic studies and it will be listed in the other studies. If the student completes the subject studies (35 ECTS credits) in Saami (as a native language) as well, the Language and Communications Studies include, in addition to the Principles of Phonetics (3 ECTS credits), the courses Structures of Finnish (3 ECTS credits) and Basics of General Linguistics (4 ECTS credits). The courses are completed immediately when beginning to study the basic studies, and they will be listed as optional courses. If the courses are listed as compulsory courses in the student's major subject studies (applies mainly to other languages), the student will select an equivalent amount (10 ECTS credits) of other optional courses.

Students majoring in Saami Culture can complete their compulsory Saami Language minor subject studies as pick-and-choose studies (25 ECTS credits) as well. The pick-and-choose package can contain courses from Saami Language basic studies and/or Saami as a Foreign Language subject studies packages. The contents of the pick-and-choose package is agreed upon right at the beginning of the autumn term together with the Saami language lecturer and compiled so that it meets the student's needs. If the student chooses to include the Phonology (5 ECTS credits) course in his/her Saami pick-and-choose package, s/he must also complete the Principles of Phonetics (3 ECTS credits) course, which is a part of the Saami Language Language and Communications Studies.

Students majoring in Saami Language who do not speak Saami as their native language and who do not have a native speaker's command of the language, will complete the Saami as a Foreign Language basic and subject studies (as applicable) with a minimum grade of 3 when taking their Saami Language (native language) major subject studies.

Saami Language basic and subject studies are open to all those students of the University of Oulu who speak Saami as their native language or who have a native speaker's command of Saami. Saami as a Foreign Language basic and subject studies is open to all students of the University of Oulu.

Right to Study and Beginning to Study Saami Language

The right to study Saami Language as a major subject is gained by passing the entrance exam, which is held each summer. Students must have completed the upper secondary school syllabus in Saami as a first language or have equivalent skills. Students of the University of Oulu can gain the right to study Saami Language as their major subject also by completing the basic and subject studies in Saami Language with a minimum grade of 3 and applying for the right to change their major subject from the faculty. Students who have the flexible study right (JOO) and transferring students can gain the right to study Saami Language as their major subject by taking part in the entry level examination, which is held in conjunction with the new students' entrance exam each May or June. For more information on the entry level exam, please contact the amanuensis.

Assessment

Single courses are graded on a scale of 0-5: 5 = excellent, 4 = very good, 3 = good, 2 = satisfactory, 1 = sufficient, 0 = fail, or pass/fail.

Study Counselling

At the beginning of each autumn term, there will be a common information and introduction session for new students and departmental staff. At the end of their first term the students compile personal study plans (HOPS plans). The students will schedule specific meetings with a lecturer and the amanuensis for assessing their personal study plans. During those sessions the students have the chance to discuss study-related issues with the teachers and the amanuensis.

The amanuensis advises all students in questions relating to completing the degree, minor subject selections and other issues related to studying. The amanuensis also guides students in issues relating to student exchange and work practice. The amanuensis can be reached in room HU 327, tel. (08) 553 3486.

Career Prospects

Some of the students of Saami Language graduate as teachers of Saami as a first language and literature in comprehensive schools and upper secondary schools. They must study Literature (as applicable) and Oral Communication Skills, as well as be accepted into the teacher training programme (please see the section Teacher Training in the study guide). Some of the students are subsequently employed as teachers of Saami and communications in vocational schools, for instance. Some of the graduates also work as researchers, in Saami media, as experts of translation and language planning, administrative positions and in the field of language technology. All Master of Arts graduates have been very successful in the working life, and there is a demand for licentiates and doctors of the field as well.

Subject-specific Practical Instructions

Minor Subject Choices

Students who wish to take the teacher training programme must complete Basic Studies in Literature (applied, 26 ECTS credits), Basic Studies in Saami Culture (25 ECTS credits), studies in Oral Communication (5 ECTS credits) and applied teacher training programme studies (60 ECTS credits).

Students who aim towards a career in translation must take the basic studies in Saami Culture and the studies in their secondary working language (B-language) (60 ECTS credits) as compulsory minor subjects. (The B language can be e.g. Finnish, Swedish or English; the A working language is Saami). In order to get the right to study another language as a minor subject the student must take the minor subject entrance exam. Registration forms and more information on the entrance exams for different languages are available on the respective web pages or at department offices. For more information on translation, please contact the Saami Language lecturers.

Those students of Saami Language who do not study to be teachers or translators can choose their minor subjects freely. The individual students' degrees usually turn out very diverse thanks to their minor subject choices.

Recommended minor subjects are Saami Culture, Finnish Language, Finnish as a Second and Foreign Language, other types of Saami and Fenno-Ugric languages, foreign languages, Literature, Language Technology, Communications, Information Science and different subjects from the field of the social sciences. General Linguistics and Phonetics are recommended especially to those interested in a career in research. Often even very surprising subject combinations can be of use in the working life. Work experience and the student's own initiative are crucial when seeking employment.

Saami Language Teacher Training

Students who wish to take the teacher training programme must complete the applied basic studies in Literature (26 ECTS credits), Saami Culture basic studies (25 ECTS credits), studies in Spoken Communication (5 ECTS credits) and the applied teacher training programme (60 ECTS credits). The course 683461P: Saami Literature, which is a part of the Literature basic studies, will compensate for the Introduction to Research course.

The teacher training consists of basic studies in Education (26 ECTS credits), studies in Subject Didactic (12 ECTS credits), teaching practice (19 ECTS credits) and optional courses (3 ECTS credits). If the student so wishes, s/he can complete the basic studies in Education before the teaching practice at the open university (Pohjois-Pohjanmaan kesäyliopisto). The students must defray those costs themselves, but students of the University of Oulu get a discount from the Pohjois-Pohjanmaan Kesäyliopisto.

A part of the teacher training is included in the Bachelor's Degree and a part in the Master's Degree. 25 ECTS credits are included in the Bachelor's Degree and the remaining 35 ECTS credits in the Master's Degree, so the teacher training will be completed in two academic years. The basic studies included in the Bachelor's Degree will be completed during the third year and the subject studies included in the Master's Degree immediately afterwards during the fourth year. Students who have begun their studies before autumn 2005 can also complete their teacher training in one academic year. The prerequisites for being employed as a teacher by the state are invariably a Master's Degree and the required studies in the subject(s) to be taught.

Students of Saami Language complete the teacher training as special teacher trainees. The students compile personal study plans (HOPSes) together with the lecturers of the Department of Educational Sciences and Teacher Training and the Giellagas Institute. The theoretical studies included in the training are completed in Oulu and the actual training period in schools takes place in Northern Finland.

Students are selected according to the results of an entrance exam and their previous grades. It is possible to take the entrance exam twice during the first three terms. There is one exam each spring term and each autumn term. It is recommended that first-year students take the spring term examination. The maximum grade in the exam is 15 points and the lowest passing grade is six points. The grade point average is the average grade of the basic studies times three. The final selections are made during the autumn term of the second year. The student will be informed as to which year s/he has to complete the teacher training. Students who have begun their studies before the year 2005 apply for the teacher training in the spring term. A total of six students will be selected for the teacher training programme each year.

The Department of Educational Sciences and Teacher Education is in charge of the basic studies in Education Science and Didactics (Secretary of Student Affairs, tel. +358 8 553 3682, room KTK 261). The responsible persons of the Saami Teacher Training are the Saami Language lecturers at the department, whom you can also contact for more information.

Study Schedule

The basic studies are completed during the student's first academic year, the subject studies during the second and third academic years, and the advanced studies during the fourth and fifth academic years.

The student must have completed the basic studies with a minimum grade of 3 in order to be able to take the subject studies. The basic and subject studies are graded according to the grade point average of the included courses. The student must have completed his/her Bachelor's Thesis and the basic and subject studies with a minimum grade of 3 in order to be able to start the advanced studies. The advanced studies are graded according to the grade point average of the individual courses.

The optional courses belonging to the advanced studies will be offered as resources allow. In literature summaries, 400-500 pages of Saami texts (or texts written in the language the student has received his/her education) and 250-300 pages of literature in a foreign language equals three ECTS credits.

Teaching Schedule

The teaching schedule (the so-called autumn/spring information sheet) will be posted to the department notice board at the beginning of each term. The schedule is also posted to the institute web site under News, Students.

Information on new courses, changes in lecture times/venues, visiting lecturers, scholarships, open positions etc. will also be posted on the notice board. The periods mentioned in the course descriptions are scheduled so that periods 1 and 2 are during the autumn term and periods 3 and 4 during the spring term.

Exams and Signing Up for Exams

The basic and subject studies mostly consist of lecture courses and practice groups, and most courses include an exam in the end. The working methods of different courses vary. In addition to lecture exams, the courses can be assessed by essays, study journals and book exams. Many optional courses are included in subject and advanced studies. These are assessed mainly through essays or book exams.

There is no separate sign-up for lecture exams, unless otherwise stated. The signing up for book exams held on the faculty or subject general exam dates takes place in WebOodi (<https://weboodi.oulu.fi/oodi/>) at least ten days before the exam date. The exam dates for the faculty and the subject exam dates are posted on the Faculty of Humanities web site under Studies, Exam Dates. Exam results are posted in the electronic register in Oodi and the exam result folder on the Institute notice board.

Registration and Office Services

The student must register each year at the Student Affairs Office (KE 1020) and at the beginning of their first year to the Saami Language Office (amanuensis, room HU 327).

Course Descriptions

Course Titles and Structure

Saami Language studies consist of five modules, which are: Text, Changes and Variations, Grammar, Research and Integrative Courses.

The Giellagas Institute organizes the following course, which is included in the Literature basic studies, for students who have been selected to the teacher training:

683461P Saami Literature 3 ECTS credits

Basic Studies 25 ECTS credits

Learning Objectives:

After completing the Basic Studies, students will master the essentials of grammar, maintenance and spelling of North Saami. They will also be capable of writing various texts. Students will be able to describe the central phenomena of phonology and morphophonology in North Saami. They will also be acquainted with the written and oral literature of the Saami people. During the Basic studies, the students will actively expand their vocabulary and enrich their language skills. In addition, the students will collect digital word lists and a dictionary of idioms for their own use.

683438P Introduction to Research on Saami and Academic Writing 3 ECTS credits

683407P Inflection 3 ECTS credits

683409P Orthographies 2 ECTS credits

683406P Phonology 5 ECTS credits

683439P Translation I 3 ECTS credits

683405P Saami Literature 5 ECTS credits

683404P Writing and Language Planning I 4 ECTS credits

Subject Studies 45 ECTS credits

Learning Objectives:

After completing the Intermediate studies, students will master the grammar and spelling of North Saami. They will also be capable of independent language maintenance. Students will be able to use the language in a growing number of occasions, both orally and in writing, also in scientific contexts. They will know how the language has changed. In addition, the students will have further expanded their lexicon and will be accustomed to using rich vocabulary actively. The students will also have expanded the word lists gathered during Basic Studies.

Opintokohteen kielet: Northern Sami

ECTS Credits:

3 ECTS credits

Language of instruction:

North Saami.

Timing:

4th - 5th academic years

Learning outcomes:

The student is familiar with the problems and methods of translating fiction and improves his/her translating skills by translating fiction. The student can analyze the linguistic and stylistic features of texts and is able to apply translation theory to analysis in both the source and the target languages. The student can also analyze his/her own translating process.

Contents:

Translating fictional texts (e.g. poetry, prose, drama, picture book, graphic novel) and one extensive Finnish-to-Saami-translation. The contents of the course can vary from year to year: the genres dealt with here can include e.g. fictional prose for adults, drama or children's literature, and the topic in question can be dealt with either by combining theory, research and practice or by focusing on the actual translation itself. The student will write an essay in which s/he examines the source texts and translation problems and strategies from a point of view central to the genre in question.

Learning activities and teaching methods:

Practice works and independent familiarization with literature.

Target group:

Students studying to be a translator.
