Course codes and levels

Individual course codes include information on the level of the course. In OBS there are three different levels of courses. The levels are marked with a letter at the end of the course codes (i.e. 721210P), see explanations below. In WebOodi course descriptions the level is indicated in 'Type' section.

In academic year 2017-2018 there are intermediate (A) and advanced (S) level courses available in English. All basic (P) level courses are only available in Finnish.

Which courses can I take?

Oulu Business School's exchange students can take basic (P) courses (if available) without any prerequisites. To attend intermediate (A) courses, students need to have some knowledge of that field. To attend advanced (S) courses students need to have extensive knowledge of that field. Please check on course descriptions if there are any particular prerequisites for the courses you'd like to take.

Exchange students from other faculties/departments can take basic (P) level courses that are offered in English (if available). Intermediate (A) level courses may be taken, if the student has completed all basic level courses (or similar studies) from the same field. Advanced (S) level courses cannot be taken. Before taking any courses, students (or their coordinator in University of Oulu) must contact Oulu Business School's international coordinator (Liaison) to agree on the course selections. Students should not contact Oulu Business School's teachers about which course to take.

How many courses should I take? Required work load is 25-30 ECTS credits per semester.

Grading scale

In all courses a student's performance is graded on a scale of 1 to 5 (passed), 5 being the best grade, and failed (0). Detailed information on our academic system is available at <http://www oulu.fi/english/studying/academic-system>

Language skills

Required level of English language is B2 (CEFR, Common European Framework of Reference for Languages).¹

Management control system design and development, including ethical concerns of and cultural influences on management control systems. Budgets and standards, variance analysis, profit centre accounting and transfer pricing, performance measurement.

Mode of delivery:

Face-to-face teaching with materials and resources in Optima.

Learning activities and teaching methods:

Face-to-face teaching with integrated lectures and exercises 36 h, self-study 97 h. Lectures and exercises contain small cases and examples for illustrating theoretical concepts. Self-study includes theory-based analysis of case-based home assignments and calculations

Target group:

Major students in economics and business administration

Prerequisites and co-requisites:

Earlier modules (introduction to business studies, business processes and analytical skills)

Recommended optional programme components:

This course is part of "Global perspectives"-module

Recommended or required reading:

Drury, C.: Management & Cost Accounting 7th Ed. 2008 \(Parts 4 & 5, pp. 346-591\), Cengage Learning EMEA;

other material defined by the responsible teacher;
lecture notes and exercises.

Assessment methods and criteria:

Students complete the course by completing case-based home assignments. The assessment of the course is based on the learning outcomes of the course unit, which means that in the home assignments they need to show both ability to describe theory in writing, and to apply basic control tools by calculations.

Grading:

This course utilizes a numerical grading scale 1-5. In the numerical scale zero stands for a fail.

Person responsible:

Lecturer Sinikka Moilanen.

Working life cooperation:

Students learn and rehearse basic calculations on budgeting, variance analysis and return on investment, which are the basic skills for accountants in organizations and relevant to understand for any business graduate. Case-based home assignments develop the students' ability to apply theoretical concepts in real-life situations in order to develop systems and solve problems.

Timing:

Period B. It is recommended to complete the course at the 1st autumn semester.

Learning outcomes:

Upon completion of the course, students are able to identify networks as a context of managing customer relationships and they can explain how relationships develop and how value is created together with customers. The student is able to define and assess different theoretical approaches to customer relationship management, e.g. relationship portfolios, key account management and customer knowledge management. In addition, the student is able to explain and identify the role of internal integration and knowledge sharing in managing customer relationships, global aspects of customer relationship management and how CRM is used as software in business practice. Having completed the course, the student is able to analyze customer relationships from different viewpoints and has both written and oral presentation skills to interpret scientific articles and solve practical business problems.

Contents:

Lectures and related material include the following themes: 1) Networks as a context in managing customer relationships, 2) Value creation in customer relationships, 3) Key account management, 4) Customer portfolios 5) Development of business relationships, 6) CRM as software, 7) Customer knowledge management, 8) The role of internal integration and knowledge sharing in managing customer relationships, 9) Global aspects of customer relationship management.

Mode of delivery:

Blended approach (face-to-face teaching and web-based teaching)

Learning activities and teaching methods:

The implementation methods of the course vary. After introductory lecture, there will be independent working online. This independent study period is followed by 26 hours of guided teaching events including group work presentations and case exercises. In addition to 20 hours of contact lectures, the course includes 134 hours of independent studying either privately or in a group.

Target group:

Master's level students in marketing.

Recommended optional programme components:

The course is an independent entity and does not require additional studies carried out at the same time.

Recommended or required reading:

Article collection and lecture material

Assessment methods and criteria:

Obligatory exercises and/or exam. The assessment of the course unit is based on the learning outcomes of the course unit. Read more about assessment criteria at the University of Oulu webpage.

Grading:

The course unit utilizes a numerical grading scale 1-5. In the numerical scale zero stands for a fail.

Furthermore, students are able to explain strategy at different levels; corporation, SBU & functional. Students are able to apply concepts and tools of strategic marketing in global and local context that is, they understand the interdependency of macro- and microenvironments. In addition, students will develop and demonstrate analytical thinking skills by applying different marketing strategies in practice and solving real-life business problems in a case exercise guided by the problem based learning (PBL) method. Students will apply oral and written communication skills appropriate for business situations by working in small groups throughout the course, playing various roles of marketing professional and presenting their case report in written and oral form.

Contents:

Strategic marketing management as a concept and as a process of situation assessment, marketing strategies, strategy formulation, and an implementation plan. Concepts such as customer value, market analysis, branding, marketing communications, and business models will be discussed and applied.

Mode of delivery:

Face-to-face teaching

Learning activities and teaching methods:

36 h face-to-face teaching, including group exercises and tutoring sessions, case exercise with both written and verbal part (53 h), case presentations (14 h) and independent reading of the textbooks and related material (20 h). During the course students will work in small groups and meet regularly in order to solve a marketing challenge proposed by the case company (case company is the same for all groups). Problem based learning (PBL) method will be applied and students play different roles to simulate tasks of the real life marketing professionals. Relating to these roles, students will write a learning diary (10 h). In the end of the course students will return a written report as a solution for the marketing challenge and present it to other students.

Target group:
