Nordic PhD Summit 2019 in Aarhus, Denmark, August 29-30, 2019

The 2019 Organizing Committee looks forward to bringing together PhD students from the Nordics for two days of interaction, networking and scientific discussions. This year’s focus will be on the PhDs societal contributions and your career after obtaining the PhD degree. The theme will be “From PhD programme to job market: Identify your real world skills”. The summit will be a mixture of plenum sessions and feedback on the participants’ own skills from a career point-of-view.

Courses for all PhD students: In the days before the summit (26-28 August 2019), there will be hosted a number of scientific three-day PhD courses, one-day workshops on generic topics (grant applications, publishing, etc.) and a 24 hour hackathon focusing on medical devices. All the PhD students from all the Nordic countries are welcomed to join the courses. More info>>

Deadline for registration is May 15, 2019. For full details of the Summit 2019 and programme, see http://phd.health.au.dk/aboutus/events/nordocphdsummit2019/

About the NorDoc organization:

Health and Biosciences Doctoral Programme of the University of Oulu (HBS-DP) is a partner in NorDoc, which is a doctoral training network of Nordic universities in Health Sciences from Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden. In Oulu, the network includes doctoral students from all HBS-DP doctoral degree programmes: Medicine, Dentistry, Biochemistry and Molecular Medicine, Health Sciences, and Biology. The activities of NorDoc aim to initiate, facilitate and intensify collaboration among the doctoral schools/faculties of Nordic countries in all relevant fields for the benefit of the doctoral candidates and their supervisors, in order to support and ensure the highest possible quality in doctoral education in health sciences. NorDoc organizes e.g. joint doctoral training courses and annual conferences, among them Nordic PhD Summits.
