

Open lectures on climate change and health!

WHO Collaborating Centre Course: CLIMATE CHANGE, WEATHER AND HUMAN HEALTH

Location: Auditorium, Kastelli Research Center, Aapistie 1, Oulu.

Schedule: October 27th-29th, 2014

Organizer: WHO Collaborating Centre in Global Change, Environment and Public Health, Center for Environmental and Respiratory Health Research (CERH), University of Oulu.

Lectures available online at:
<http://connectpro.oulu.fi/cerh>
(sign in as a guest).

Course funded by UniOGS, DPPH and CERH.

Climate change is the biggest global health threat of the 21st century

Program

Monday October 27th Theme: CLIMATE CHANGE	Tuesday October 28th Theme: CLIMATE CHANGE, WEATHER AND HEALTH	Wednesday October 29th Theme: CHALLENGES AND SOLUTIONS
8.30- Introduction and welcome words – Professor Jouni Jaakkola	8.30- Temperature and human health – Adjunct professor Tiina Ikäheimo	8.30- Solutions at regional level – Member of Parliament Tytti Tuppurainen
9.00- What is climate change? General effects on environment – Professor Timothy Carter	9.20- Temperature and human health in different climates – Adjunct professor Yuming Guo	9.00- Solutions at national level – Ministry of Social Affairs and Health, Medical counsellor Mikko Paunio
9.45- What is climate change? Environmental and socioeconomic consequences – Professor Timothy Carter	9.45- Climate extremes temperature and health – Professor Colin Butler	9.45- Climate change – a threat to the waning of war? – Research Professor Nils Petter Gleditsch
13.30- Climate Change and Global Health – Professor Colin Butler	13.30- Climate change and infectious diseases – Professor Birgitta Evengård	11.45- Climate change mitigation and human health
14.15- Climate Change and Global Health – Professor Colin Butler and Professor Jouni Jaakkola	14.15- Climate change, pollen and allergic diseases – Lecturer Timo Hugg, Professor Jouni Jaakkola

More information: www.oulu.fi/cerh

Welcome!